

It seems the intent of this process was to give everyone a chance at getting any available call. With the misuse we are presently seeing it is impossible to get a fair chance when any individual has the ability to enter many more applications than any other applicant. I truly support the 1 application per individual. This way every one gets a fair shake at getting a new call. It wasn't this way when the service started. Thanks for listening..